New e Star Feature: Important Intraop Note
 On Wednesday, Aug. 28, we will release a new feature that enables anesthesia intraoperative teams to enter information that is important for future anesthesia teams to review. To enter a note, click the "I Note" button in the toolkit. Your note will be viewable in the Preprocedure 'Banner' section, the 'Prior Anesthesia' section and in the anesthesia record in chart review.

Important Medication Product Change: Succinylcholine
 Our preferred succinylcholine product is changing (see pictures below). For the OR areas, the pharmacy will continue to provide prefilled syringes (No change to Prefilled syringes).
 On occasion, vials are still used, so we want to make everyone aware of this change. We will likely start receiving the new product this week. This new presentation will be available in Acudose machines in the ICU areas as well.

ORCID ID
Did you know? Having an ORCID ID can streamline your next paper submission or grant application—and some journals now require an ORCID ID to submit a manuscript. Several funders now allow researchers to populate grant applications with data directly from ORCID (Open Researcher and Contributor Identifier). If you don't have an ORCID ID (or have no idea what your password is), contact department editor Yvonne Poindexter for assistance. Click here to learn more.

Department Achievements
 Pediatric Anesthesia fellows Clayton Adams, MD, Meagan Dodd, MD, Jaclyn Irwin, MD, and David Roberts, MD, had the opportunity to go to Chapel Hill, NC, and do a bootcamp with the Pediatric Anesthesia fellows there. Jenna Helmer-Sobey, MD, has been instrumental in this experience for them.

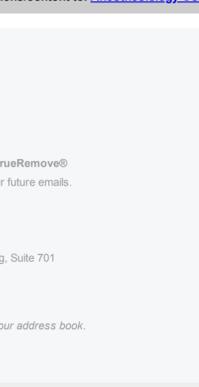

The Pain Clinic received positive comments from patients in their July 2019 Press Ganey Responses. Great job! View some of the comments below:

very professional and pleasant!
Lauren was very professional and thorough but I also felt she cared about helping me in obtaining the best possible medical outcome for me.
Dr. Sobey and his staff are very professional and are very passionate to your care and concerns. Love all of them.
The receptionist is outstanding
Professional, courteous and dedicated, what more can I say.
They always get me in and out in a timely manner. Always courteous and professional. I truly enjoy this staff.
great front desk staff
To be completely honest, I could not be happier with the Interventional Pain Center. Very PROFESSIONAL!!!
Everyone who works here is awesome. Everyone!
I have been blessed to have Dr. Sobey and the whole team there helping me. Lauren included for sure.
Simply excellent.
I am so thankful to have Vanderbilt's Interventional Pain Center helping me. They are THE BEST! Thank YOU!!!
I was very impressed with everyone's attitude and the way I was treated and listened to even though we didn't agree on the treatment plan.
I would not hesitate to recommend this clinic. This was my second visit and the care was wonderful both times.
No delays.
First time ANY doctor for a FIRST appt. had OBVIOUSLY reviewed my care record! And could discuss w/o asking me to explain previous care info.
No delays from provider.
The staff works well to help you get an appointment as soon as possible.
Great Doctors, and staff. Friendly and efficient. They listen and explain all treatment options including you and your views/concerns in your care.
Excellent facility.
Everyone is friendly and Professional in all aspects of patient care.
Little if any wait time.
I have been very impressed with all I have encountered in this particular facility

Ryan Smith, MD, has been named Director of Perioperative Consult Services. This new role combines the previous roles of Director of the Vanderbilt Preoperative Evaluation Clinic (VPEC) and Chief of the Perioperative Consult Service. In this role, Smith will advance the work of VPEC and PCS by providing leadership to expand our departmental offerings of preoperative evaluation and optimization, as well as postoperative care outside of the ICU.
