Michele Cung, PharmD PGY2 Pediatrics Resident

PGY1 Residency: The Johns Hopkins Hospital

Pharmacy School: Massachusetts College of Pharmacy and Health Sciences

Career Plans: Pediatric Clinical Pharmacy Specialist

Research Project: Impact of CFTR Modulators on Vancomycin

Why Monroe Carell: During my interview at Monroe Carell, what stood out to me most was the people with their passion for pediatrics, dedication to the residency program, and genuine warmth and support. I was inspired by the team's commitment to providing exceptional care for a diverse patient population and fostering an environment that prioritizes both patient outcomes and resident development. The opportunity to train in a prestigious academic medical center with a dynamic and challenging learning environment is an incredible opportunity to foster my professional and personal growth. I am eager to work alongside such an incredible team, contribute to meaningful patient care, and continue advancing my skills and knowledge in pediatric pharmacy!

PGY2 Pediatrics Resident

PGY1 Residency: Monroe Carell Jr., Children's Hospital at Vanderbilt

Pharmacy School: University of South Carolina College of Pharmacy, Columbia, SC

Career Plans: Pediatric Critical Care Pharmacy Specialist

Research Project: Aminoglycoside AUC/MIC Outcomes in the NICU

Why Monroe Carell: Monroe Carell is a prestigious institution with a storied history of developing great pediatric practitioners. During my PGY1 interview, I fell in love with the kind people and their desire to make children healthier! Monroe Carell treats patients with a wide variety of disease states which made for a one-of-a-kind learning environment during my PGY1 year and continues to excite me as I move into PGY2 year. I am excited to continue growing my confidence and knowledge in my interest area of critical care as I work towards preparing for a future as a clinical specialist. When choosing a program, I knew that Monroe Carell checked all my boxes for residency and would help me become the best pediatric critical care pharmacist possible!

Madison Zelan, PharmD

PGY1 Pharmacy Resident

Pharmacy School: Auburn University

Career Plans: Pediatric Critical Care Pharmacy Specialist

Research Project: Current Practices in Treatment Duration of Secondary Prophylaxis of CMV Infection in Pediatric Organ Transplant Patients

Why Monroe Carell: I was first drawn to Monroe Carell because of the outstanding critical care rotation opportunities, which provide exposure to high-acuity cases and world-class care. The chance to work with complex, challenging patients while learning from some of the best in the field felt like the perfect environment to refine my skills and grow as a clinical pharmacist. What truly solidified my desire to be here, though, was the people. Everyone I met during the recruiting process was so kind, welcoming, and genuinely passionate about their work and their patients. That combination of exceptional training and such a supportive, positive atmosphere made it clear to me that Monroe Carell was the ideal place to take the next step in my pharmacy journey.
