

2021-2022 PGY1 Pharmacy Practice
Residency Class

Rachel Gilmore 	Rachel is from Princeton, New Jersey, and completed her undergraduate education at Georgia Institute of Technology and pharmacy education at the University of North Carolina. While in pharmacy school, she was involved in the School of Pharmacy Student Senate, Phi Lambda Sigma, APhA-ASP, Phi Delta Chi, and in founding a summer mentorship program in the wake of COVID-19. Her clinical interests include pediatrics and oncology. She is excited to explore Nashville's food and country music scenes and is determined to find the best cup of coffee in the city. In her free time, she loves baking, reading, traveling, exercising, and spending time with friends. A fun fact about Rachel is that she is red-green color blind!
Andrew is from Kansas City, Kansas, and completed his undergraduate and pharmacy school education at the University of Kansas. While in pharmacy school he was involved in APhA, SSHP, Research Rx, Kappa Psi, and student government. His pharmacy practice interests include administration, internal medicine, and oncology. He is excited about joining the Vanderbilt team, exploring Nashville food and outdoors, and catching a Titans game - especially versus the Chiefs! In his free time, he loves spending time with family and friends, playing soccer, hiking, and playing board games. Fun Fact: "I live for soccer and I enjoy traveling with friends - I would love to make it to Europe after the pandemic and attend some of the big soccer games!"	Andrew Harsh
Savine Hernandez 	Savine is from Miami, Florida, and completed her undergraduate education at the University of Virginia. She later completed her pharmacy school education at the University of Florida College of Pharmacy. During pharmacy school, she was involved in APhA-ASP, IPSF, SSHP, Rho Chi, and Phi Lambda Sigma. Her clinical interests include oncology, bone marrow transplant, and CAR T-cell Therapy. She is excited to learn more about the Nashville culture, try new foods, and listen to live bands. In her free time, you may find Savine swimming, trying out different gym classes, or spending time with her cat, Bellini. A fun fact about Savine is that she was named after Albert Sabin, the developer of the oral poliovirus vaccine.

Mary Katherine Cella Shultz

Mary Katherine, or MK, is from Murfreesboro, Tennessee, and attended Lipscomb University for both her undergraduate and pharmacy school education. During pharmacy school, she was involved in APhA-ASP, ASHP-SSHP, Rho Chi, Phi Lambda Sigma, and Kappa Psi. Her clinical interests are broad but are mainly focused on cardiology and critical care. She loves a good book, eating fried chicken, cheering on her favorite sports teams, or spending time with her husband, friends, and family. A fun fact about MK is that both of her parents are also pharmacists and her grandfather invented drugs as an organic chemist!

Thomas is from Inman, South Carolina and completed his undergraduate work at Clemson University before going on to pharmacy school at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. While at UNC, he was involved in AMCP, SCCP, Rho Chi tutoring, Recruitment Ambassadors, and the Curriculum & Assessment Committee. His clinical interests include solid organ transplant and critical care. He is excited for the sports scene in Nashville with the Preds, Titans, Sounds, and Commodores covering all major sports. In his downtime, Thomas enjoys watching sports of all kinds (but especially Clemson football and UNC basketball), hiking, backpacking, and playing disc golf. A fun fact about Thomas is that he is co-author of a book published on Amazon!
